

Over the past 26 years, we have strived to minimize language barriers between cultures.

A Lex Expert Ltd. is a Budapest-based company which, alongside offering usual routine linguistic services (translation, interpretation, DTP), is specialised in developing IT supported interpreting services, a brand new area in this market segment.

Our R&D project focuses on Computer Assisted Interpreting Systems.

We are currently using a model WEB interface for testing purposes.

In the framework of the project, we are looking for partners to carry out scientific research and development work and for testing at international level.

Phase 2 of H2020 will aim to develop and implement a prototype, possibly in consortium with the R&D partner.
